

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of the present invention include wireless electronic memory devices formed within plugs for sealing the filling ports of containers of consumable substances; containers incorporating the plugs; and related methods.